PREFATORY NOTE.

Under the provisions of the act of Congress approved July 8, 1870, "An act to revise, consolidate, and amend the statutes relating to patents and copyrights," the registration of works in which copyright was claimed was transferred to the Library of Congress. The first registration under this act was dated July 10, 1870, and the first registration for a dramatic work was made on July 21, the same year. The present catalogue of Dramatic Compositions Copyrighted in the United States includes all titles for dramatic works registered from July 21, 1870, to December 31, 1916, inclusive; upwards of 60,000 titles. It does not represent, however, a collection of the same number of deposited works. Under the legislation in force from July 8, 1870 to July 1, 1909, it was customary to file the title-page of the drama in advance of the deposit of copies and subsequently deposit the required copies. The result has been that a great many titles were filed for registration which were not followed by the deposit of copies. This was especially so in the case of dramas, and it is estimated that in more than 20,000 cases, while the title has been recorded, no copies have been received. It has been deemed advisable to include in this catalogue all titles recorded; and where no copies have been found, the failure to receive them is indicated by the omission of any date of copies received.

By the copyright act of 1909, the preliminary deposit of the title-page was abolished and registration has only been possible upon the deposit of the dramatic work, two copies in the case of a published drama and one manuscript copy in the case of an unpublished play (where "copies have not been reproduced for sale").

This catalogue it is hoped will speak for itself. The bibliographical form was adopted after careful consideration of the many questions involved. It is thought that the arrangement by titles in one alphabet for the whole collection will prove the most serviceable. The titles in this alphabet are numbered consecutively, and from the index the citation is to the number following the title of each play, instead of to the printed page. This direct citation it is believed will be found a distinct advantage. A supplementary alphabet includes the titles registered while the printing was in progress. and contains about 3,500 titles.

Because of the great bulk of the work, it has been necessary to make each entry in a very condensed form and to supply the facts to be recorded, and which are repeated in relation to each title—name and address of claimant; date of deposit of title and registration; date of publication (for published dramas), and date of deposit, together with class designation and entry number—in an arbitrarily devised form of abbreviated statement. This should be properly understood to prevent mistakes. Following this prefatory note are printed careful explanations with examples. The different provisions of the various copyrighted laws should be clearly borne in mind to correctly interpret the indications found in the copyright paragraph following each title. From 1870 to June 30, 1909, the date of the registration of the title-page was the date upon which the term of copyright protection began to run. From July 1, 1909, this is so only in the case of unpublished dramas ("not reproduced in copies for sale"); but the beginning of this term of copyright is indicated by the date of the receipt of one manuscript copy (the deposit of a title-page having been abrogated). Since July 1, 1909, however, the beginning of the copyright protection in the case of each dramatic work published since that date is the date of publication, which is indicated by the arbitrary sign © ("copyrighted") authorized by the copyright act, followed by such stated date of publication.

From 1870 to 1899 all copyright registrations were made without any class designation of the works in one series of numbered entries for each year. To indicate such entries the year date is followed by the entry number (e. g., "1875: 13297").

During the year 1900 the copyright records were for more convenient use divided into four classes: "A," "B," "C," and "D." In this classification dramatic compositions were designated "A." From 1901 the class designation "D" was used up to July 1, 1909, and after that date also under the express provision of section 5 of the copyright act which then went into effect. The entries for all classes of copyright works were given a new series of twentieth century numbers from January 1, 1901, and the designation briefly indicated (e. g., dramatic compositions, "XXC., class D, No. 18971").

The main alphabet of the titles of the registered dramas contains cross-references from all alternative, or secondary or translated titles; and also from the titles of all plays contained in any volume or volumes of collected dramas. The alphabet of titles is followed by an alphabetical index containing references from the names of all authors, joint authors, editors, translators, and copyright proprietors; together with cross-references from pen-names, pseudonyms, etc.

This catalogue was under contemplation and was carefully planned for many years before it became possible to carry out the work. The supervision of the final preparation of the catalogue was intrusted to Mr. Henry S. Parsons, Chief of the Catalogue and Index Division of the Copyright Office, and he has devoted to the details of the work unremitting care and attention. The original title cards were prepared by the indexing and cataloguing force of his division, but the task of unifying the title entries, making sure of absolute accuracy, and the general editing of the printer's copy from A to Z has been the work of Mrs. Mary Wright Davis. Faithful and intelligent assistance in this task has been rendered by Dr. Woodbury Pulsifer and Mr. Earl M. Jeffrey, and the titles in foreign languages have been carefully revised by Dr. George C. Keidel, all members of the Copyright Office force.

The copyright act provides that the register of copyrights at stated intervals shall print complete and indexed catalogues for each class of copyright entries, and expressly provides that such consolidated catalogues and indexes shall be supplied "to all persons ordering them at such prices as may be determined to be reasonable" by the Superintendent of Public Documents. In accordance with this provision of law 1,000 copies of the present work is offered to subscribers at a price of $4 for the set of two volumes, bound in cloth.

Respectfully submitted,

THORVALD SOLBERG,
Register of Copyrights.

HERBERT PUTNAM,
Librarian of Congress.

EXPLANATIONS WITH EXAMPLES.

The complete title of the drama is in each case followed by a paragraph containing (1) the name and address of the copyright owner; (2) the date of the entry; (3) the date of the deposit of copies in the Copyright Office; (4) the date of publication, for works deposited since July 1, 1909, under the present law; and (5) the class designation and registration number by which the entry is identified on the copyright records. Since the provisions of the copyright law have been altered from time to time during the period covered by this catalogue, the order and significance of the copyright paragraphs show a corresponding variation. For a complete guide to these differences reference should be made to the carefully selected examples with full explanations and to the list of abbreviations which follow.

EXAMPLES.

The actual samples below are followed by explanations to indicate the proper reading of the data:

Aaron Burr; or, The kingdom of silver, historical drama in 4 acts, by C. E. Stoaks. Doylestown, O., George A. Corbus, 1887. — Entries prior to 1900.

© Charles Erastus Stoaks, Doylestown, O.; 1886; 28114, Dec. 13; 2c. Dec. 18, 1877. 36

Explanation: The above title was received for copyright registration in the name of Charles Erastus Stoaks, of Doylestown, Ohio, on Dec. 13, 1886, from which date the original 28-year period of copyright protection began; the title was recorded as entry no. 28114 of that year; two published copies were received to complete the entry on Dec. 18, 1887.

After the circus; farce in 1 act, by Lawrence Chenoweth. Clyde, O., Ames pub. co., 1900. 17 p. 12°. (Ames's series of standard and minor drama, no. 422.) — Entries in 1900.

© Ames pub. co., Clyde, O.; 1900 A: 29671, Dec. 6; 2c. Dec. 8. 496

Explanation: Ames pub. co., claimants of copyright, filed title of work on Dec. 6, 1900, from which date the 28-year term of protection began; title recorded as entry no. 29671 in Class A of that year; two published copies were received on Dec. 8, 1900.

Across the desert; drama in 4 acts, by Wayne Campbell. Typewritten. — Entries between Jan. 1, 1901, and July 1, 1909.

© H. Walter Van Dyke, Baxter, Ia.; D: 404, Apr. 8, 1901; 2c. May 6, 1901.

Explanation: H. W. Van Dyke, of Baxter, Iowa, is the claimant of copyright; recorded as Class D, no. 404; title received for registration on Apr. 8, 1901, from which date begins the 28-year term of protection; two typewritten copies received on May 6, 1901.

Dramas registered after Jan. 1, 1901, were given a consecutive (century) series of registration numbers as "Class D."

Entries after July 1, 1909: Published dramas.

Admiral Peters; comedy in 1 act, by W. W. Jacobs and Horace Mills. New York, S. French; London, S. French, ltd. 13 p. 12°.

© Sept. 16, 1909; 2 c. Sept. 17, 1909; D: 16812; Samuel French, ltd., London. 301

Explanation: Copyright was secured by publication on Sept. 16, 1909, from which date the 28-year term began; two copies were deposited in the Copyright Office on Sept. 17, 1909, and were recorded as Class D, no. 16812, in the name of the claimant, Samuel French, ltd., London.

On July 1, 1909, the revised and consolidated copyright act of Mar. 4, 1909, went into effect, under which the copyright term, in the case of published works, begins from the date of publication with notice of copyright, instead of from the date of registration in the Copyright Office as under previous legislation.

Entries after July 1, 1909: Unpublished dramas.

Abatement (The); drama in 4 acts, by W. B. Carlock. 176 p. obl. 16°. Typewritten.

© 1c. Aug. 18, 1913; D: 34193; Wayne B. Carlock, San Francisco. 46

Explanation: One unpublished typewritten copy of the above drama was received in the Copyright Office on Aug. 18, 1913, from which date the copyright term runs; it was recorded as Class D, no. 34193, in the name of the claimant, Wayne B. Carlock, of San Francisco.

Should a drama which is entered as unpublished be subsequently published the law provides for the making of a new entry.

Renewal entries.

Christus; a mystery in 3 parts, by H. W. Longfellow. Boston and New York, Houghton, Mifflin and company, 1886.

© Houghton, Mifflin & co., Boston; 1886: 28719, Dec. 16; 2c. Dec. 20. 7279d

—— Same.

© Ernest W. Longfellow, Cambridge, Mass., in renewal for 14 years from Sept. 30, 1900; 1900 A: 12737, May 21. 7279e

—— Same.

© Ernest W. Longfellow, Cambridge, Mass., as child of the deceased author, in extension for 14 years. Renewal no. 5061, Jan. 14, 1914. Renewal entry May 21, 1900, no. A: 12737. 7279f

Explanation: The above three entries show the registration of an edition of "Christus" in 1886, a 14-year renewal of the same in 1900, and a further 14-year extension of the term in 1914.

The present copyright law permits a renewal of an entry, during the last year of the original term, for a second term of 28 years. If such an entry has already been renewed for 14 years under the previous law, it can be extended for a further term of 14 years. This gives in either case a total of 56 years' protection.
